I replied back that I didn't think I would be in Washington and I also didn't think it was ethically possible to attend. So I would value your response to edify that!

Did you get this invitation from Jeffrey Longworth, too? If so, then I'll include you in my advice back to Susan Bodine about whether she may accept the invitation.

Susan and Alex,

See below about the B&T post-election event at the Swedish Embassy on the Potomac River. Similar to our event after the 2016 election, I will be adding an environmental seminar-like event from 1-3 p.m. in our office, with transportation for everyone attending to the "Signature Event" in Georgetown.

Will you both please come and present at my environmental seminar? I want this to be the Susan and Alex show and it would be so much fun. You both are great leaders and friends, and have so much going on that you can share and discuss. Susan's new compliance assurance focus (finally! Help people comply and everyone will do it!). Alex's glowing article in the Boston Globe, followed by news of her new nomination that could bring her back to DC. You two would be amazing and I'd owe you forever (although I think I told Susan she owes me because, through no fault of her own, she had to cancel in 2016 because the Senate EPW had a critical vote or action on one of her pet projects?). And Alex, if I haven't shared with you, much of my life lately is consumed by PFAS for airports...but we can talk about that later...and you know who the PFAS expert at ECOS is...nice dinner discussions when we get together (much to Kim's chagrin).

Okay, enough begging. I know Susan is presenting to the ABA on November 13...boring compared to the event I have planned. Please say yes. And join us at the Swedish Embassy with your husbands afterwards. Best, Jeff.

P.S. I don't really like the use of or connotation about "report cards" in our title below...this is totally a forward looking event, not a recap or assessment of 2016-18, but what might happen in 2018-2020 based on the mid-terms. Cheers.
